Ric Masten, son of Mrs. Hildreth Hare, is off to Paris to study art. His letters home have proved so entertaining that The Pine Cone has arranged to run them serially. Ric, 20 years old, writes of the Paris art schools now, a piquant contrast to the autobiography of Abel "Buck" Warshawsky, nationally known portrait painter, on the feature page, in which we have a picture of Paris and the art schools as they were before World War I.

Council Postpones Appointing New City Attorney

The Carmel City Council, meeting Wednesday night, postponed until October 19, 3:45 p.m., appointing a successor to William Hudson, city attorney who presented his resignation at a special meeting last Friday.

In his letter of resignation, Hudson, who has been city attorney for 12 years, said:

"I feel required to resign as Carmel City Attorney in order to avoid a conflict of interests in connection with the pending application of the California Water and Telephone Company for an increase in rates. It is only proper that the City of Carmel be represented at the hearing to be conducted by the Public Utilities Commission and I do not feel that I can do so in as much as my firm act as local counsel for the California Water and Telephone Company, and we will take part in presenting the Company's case to the Commission."

Water Company Presents Case At First Session

The California Water and Telephone Company submitted its case for a 15 percent raise in rates in a two day hearing before the Public Utilities Commission Monday and Tuesday, at Few Memorial Hall in Monterey.

Company witnesses included Harry Reinhardt, engineer, who attempted to establish that comparative rate structures are unreliable because different territories require different installations and to serve their public.

Peter A. Nenzel, General manager, offered the following figures showing that many items had increased 35.4 percent to 250 percent between 1940 and 1949.

Alfred L. Burke, financial expert, pointed out that the present capitalization of the company is not satisfactory at the present time because of the fact that it had to raise a large amount of

I arrived Grand Central Station so sleepy and tired that when I opened and closed my eyes it sounded like eating popcorn in a bathroom. I dragged my bags through what seemed like miles of station which really was only 70 or 80 hundred yards. I mounted 40 flights of stairs and burst upon the big city.

I looked up into the sky and saw tall buildings and also a small pigeon. The buildings left a great impression. The pigeon left his mark, too.

I felt like the straw hat kid of '49. Out in front of the station I caught a taxi and started gaping at the city. After a couple of blocks the cab broke down. I had to drag my suitcases out into the middle of Broadway. Ann caught another cab and said I could walk another block to the New Weston Hotel. I did, and when I staggered up to the desk, my pants were half mast, my shirt was out and my hat on backwards. I croaked out, "Reservations for Masten." Reply, "No reservations for Masten." I said, "How about Nes?" He said, "That won't help you, but come back at 12 noon, we might have something."

Ann lived 12 blocks from there so I started to walk. That's right, I walked 12 blocks—but in the wrong direction. I cut back and somehow lost the New Weston hotel. I wound up taking a cab back. Gosh, that's a big city! Well it turned out that the reservation was in Taylor's name.

New York is big and that's all I can say or care to say. Although the art museums are really something compared to the Carmel Art Gallery. Don't ask me why. I think you know. Ann and I walked so far in the Metropolitan that we got the giggles. Gosh but we are young!

Not that you would be interested, but Ann and I went to Bop City and heard Louis Armstrong, the jazz world's answer to Bach. As for South Pacific, it was terrific. Ann and I sat with the tears streaming down our hot little faces. The music was that moving. It is really hard to believe how good the show really is.

I'll try to write a little description of New York as it impressed me.

In the hot haze the buildings finger the sky, a sky all white with haze in early morning, then gray with the dirty breath of industry. The black palm of the city lies below, while the fingers point to the hidden heaven. The fingers, monuments of man's achievement and so-called knowledge, shine at first with novelty. But in time they darken like the rest of the city.

In the palm are the creases, the streets which have a double meaning. At night, when the city sleeps, they are hollow and lonely as a dog's howl. Paper flops along the buildings on the tongue of the wind. A rat with beady eyes will scamper in the gutter and scavenge in the alley ways.

Then morning comes with heat and melts the night, bringing the sweat of life from the silent buildings. People, people, more people. The little man with the high crotch and bald head. Fat ladies selling matches for a penny. Swift men, swift women, moving in the creases running like sweat on the palm. The tall girl in the orchid dress with pearls to here, round

Dick Hagadorn Returns From Abroad Very Much Pleased With Paris . . . "It's All It's Cracked Up To Be"

A recent issue of Life magazine gave an alluring account of GI student life in gay old Paris. It was enough to make many other GI's wonder what they were doing in prosaic old United States. Back from the mecca of artists, writers and avant-garde, the land of renowned painters, picturesque sidewalk cafes, piquant countrysides and famous vineyard products is Richard S. Hagadorn, head of the art department of Carmel High School.

As to Life's reporting of GI student life, Dick, who took his year's leave there as an art student, has this to say, "I would urge anyone to go to Paris for as long as possible." Most art students would probably need little urging to do as Dick did—continuing his studies under well-known masters while kicking about Spain, France and Italy.

Paris is just about what it is cracked up to be, he reports. Art? All Paris loves the artist—and takes him as naturally and seriously as any other craftsman. Like many fellow student artists, Dick studied at the Grande Chaumiere and at various master studios—a system of schooling which gives the student the opportunity to work with well-known painters. He says the trend among the younger artists and so-called avant-garde seems to be away from radical experimentalism and toward conservative naturalism. This he believes was one of the effects of the German occupation.

Living conditions? Most students still find cheapest living on the famous Left Bank and live for the most part uncomplainingly under conditions they would probably protest elsewhere. Precedent and the term Bohemian cloak shabbiness and heating problems with an artistic aura. Food is cheap and generally good. $40 per month for pension complete including three meals at the time Dick lived there—although most Well, that's the way it impressed me. Now that I have seen it I don't particularly want to go back for any length of time.

Bones Found In Sewer Excavation

Bone fragments tentatively described as human jaw bones, portion of skull, possible arm and finger bones have been reported dug up in proximity to Indian pottery by workmen digging the new sewer line on Carmel Point. Pending investigation by paleontologists, it is not known whether or not an interesting archaeological find has been made.

The discovery was announced by Superintendent C. R. Johnson, directing the sewer project. Several relics described as Indian stone and pestals were first unearthed by the large mechanical ditching machines in the vicinity of Robison Jeffers' Tor House. Tuesday, bone fragments were brought up by the digger working along 12th street.

Additional mortar and pestals have shown up at various spots throughout Carmel Point, leading to speculation that Carmel Point was at one time an Indian camping or burial grounds.

The exact number of relics discovered was impossible to determine immediately as workmen on the project were reported to have taken them home for souvenirs.

Brazil Appointed Superior Judge; Scott Named D.A.

Monterey County legal circles watched two members step into higher positions with the appointment of former District Attorney Anthony Brazil to the new created Superior Court bench No. 2, and his former deputy, Attorney Russell Scott, moving up as District Attorney.

Judge Brazil accepted his appointment from Governor Earl Warren on Tuesday morning. The County Board of Supervisors met immediately upon receipt of Judge Brazil's resignation and appointed Deputy District Attorney Scott to the vacant post before noon. Attorney Louis Moore was edged out by a 3-2 vote of the board, with Chairman A. B. Jacobsen casting the deciding ballot.

American students need to supplement their diet with canned stuff from the States. Restaurant food is supreme when you can afford it. Wine is good and cheap or excellent and expensive. Now with devaluation, living will be even cheaper.

Entertainment? Left Bank dwellers still make most of their own entertainment in the little sidewalk cafes and subterranean bistros like the timeless Cafe Flore and Deaux Magots, or the jazz clubs where students gather to

TOWN HALL MEETING 20th

The Carmel Town Hall's next meeting is scheduled tentatively for Thursday, October 20, at 8 p.m. in the Sunset School auditorium, announces Fred Bechdolt, the forum's moderator. The program committee is still considering the subject for the next discussion. Talbert Josselyn has been added to the committee.

GILROY GRIDDERS TO TEST PADRES THIS AFTERNOON

Dipping into the professional ranks for a topflight coach, the Gilroy High School football machine will present a new deal in gridiron manipulations. Johnny Golden, Philadelphia Eagles professional star, was snared by the Mustangs to install new spirit into the always-willing blue and white gridders. That the Gilroy lads have learned their lessons well is evidenced by their 35-0 victory over the good Watsonville junior-varsity team last Friday night. Reports emanating out of Gilroy put the Mustangs on a par with the best teams in the Santa Clara Valley League. Mentor Golden has installed the single wing offense as his attacking medium and their wide end runs and tricky reverses completely baffled the Wildcats last Friday. The Gilroy line is big and beefy and the backs are equipped with plenty of swift and nifty passing.

To counter the enthusiastic Gilroy grid machine, Carmel will rely on a quick-charging line to open holes for the deceptive thrusts engineered by quarterback Jim Hare. Jim has some hard-running backs at his command in Tom Handley, Jack Belangee, Henry Overin, Legare McNeill, and Bobby Updike. Updike has recovered from the miseries which benched him during the Patterson and San Jose Tech tussles and will be able to gallop at full speed today. Carmel's small but speedy line, led by Captain Pierre Boutet, will be called upon for the third straight game to handle linemen outweighing them 15 pounds per man. The little Padre forwards opened gaping holes in the Patterson and San Jose lines and are looking for a tougher test from the Mustang forwards. Dick Weer and Neils Reimers will handle the end spots, with Boutet and Pete Berg manning the tackle slots. Sylvester Burger, most improved griddler on the squad, will team with Bill Daniels at the guard positions. Scrappy Steve Whitaker will handle the center chores. Sure to see plenty of action for the Padres are Frank Cleary, who played a very sound game at end in the San Jose game, Chuck Grimshaw, Pete Petrus, Chris Williams, Don Canham, Thor Rasmussen, and Mitch Steenhoudt.

Today's varsity tilt will get under way at 3:30.

LITTLE PADRES TACKLE THE GILROY LIMITEDS TODAY

After absorbing a good lesson from the beefy Boulder Creek varsity last Thursday, the Carmel High School limited squad will get back in their own company today when they mix with the Gilroy lightweights. The little Padres are green as grass but are working hard to master the fundamentals of football and should put up a good scrap against the favored Gilroy aggregation. Coach Chuck Dawson will rely on the speed slants of Pablo Palick and Paul Ricketson to pierce the Gilroy defense on the ground while Stu Emery, Bob Laugenor, and Mike Ricketts will direct the aerial attack. Two rangy pass receivers, Frans and Hans Doelman, present good targets for the pitches of the quarterbacks. Improved play of Rod Dresser and Gerald McDonald has given the Padrecitos added strength at the vital end positions. Howard Veit, Bob Streissguth, Jim Harget, Joe Beard, Arleigh Jones, and Mickey Frisbie round out the forward wall for Carmel limiteds.

The limited tussle will start at 2 o'clock.

Golf Finish Sunday "Most Spectacular In Memory"--Cochrane

The spectacular sand trap explosion shot which Champion Mac Hunter sank for a birdie on 37th hole of the California State Amateur Championship last Sunday, helping him beat runner-up Gene Littler, goes down in the scrapbook of one veteran sportswriter and tournament official as climaxing perhaps the most thrilling tournament finish in his memory.

Ed Cochrane, former Hearst sports chief and columnist, called it a 1000-1 shot, with sporting odds on the hole becoming astronomical with Littler's follow-up 20-foot putt to match Hunter's birdie.

Ed Cochrane's birdie's-eye view of the nerve shattering 36th, 37th, and 38th holes shows the following sequence of dazzling play.

The match easily could have been decided on the 35th hole when Hunter stood one up. But both faltered. Littler drove into the rough at the left of the green. Hunter's shot was short. Both messed their second shots so Littler got down in four and Hunter in five, squaring the match.

On the eighteenth green Littler had a putt of 20 feet and Hunter 12 feet. To the gallery's surprise both sank their putts for birdies, forcing the match into extra holes.

On the 37th, Hunter's second shot rested in the bottom of a deep sand trap to the right of the green. Littler's ball stuck to the apron of the green about 20 feet from the cup. It was 1000 to 1 that Hunter would not hole out from the bottom of the trap.

He made an explosion shot, attempting to get close to the cup—but his ball rolled in the hole. It was a birdie 3.

The pressure was then on Littler, but after carefully studying the putt for a few moments he stepped up and ran it 20 feet for a birdie, necessitating another hole.

For the 38th, Littler was on the green with his second, making a perfect wood shot to the green, a par five hole. Hunter's second was just short of the green. Each got down in two for birdies and went on to the 38th.

On this par four hole Hunter was on the green 12 feet from the cup. Littler's ball was resting on the side of a slope just off the green. He lost the match when his approach stopped 15 feet past the cup. Hunter's putt rimmed the cup and stayed out. Littler could have squared the match again with another long putt, but he missed and the match was over, Hunter winning one up.

"Both players," Cochrane added, "proved their gameness by the fight they put up to carry the match so far."

A lecture by Richard Kroth, artist exponent of Goethe's Color theory at the Carmel Woman's Club on Friday evening, October 14 at 8:00 p. m. is the second event presented by the Rudolf Steiner Study Group of Carmel in recognition of the 200th anniversary of Goethe's birth.

The artist's paintings will be on exhibition.

Mr. Kroth is a recognized authority on Goethe's color theory. His most recent work has been with the Colored Shadows. This artist studies Goethe, not to reinforce his own ideas about painting but to discover what Goethe has to offer to the modern artist. Mr. Kroth is most articulate in regard to Goethe's contribution to the artist of America and he offers a great deal to answer the question, What use is Goethe's theory of color to modern Americans?

The Time Has Come . .

By Kippy Stuart

Tuberous begonias will soon be going to sleep. Next year's blooms will depend upon how you put them to sleep. As soon as all the flowers have fallen and only the green stems remain, ease the bulbs out of the ground, leaving as much soil as possible around bulbs. Select some dry, shady spot and lay the plants on their sides. Leave them alone until the tops have withered and fallen off. The next move is to remove the earth gently, trying not to destroy the roots that look like coarse hair.

Powder the bulbs with garden sulphur. This is to protect them from red spider and aphids. You can store bulbs where ever it is convenient, but remember, they must have air. If you choose to hang the bulbs on the garage wall in paper bags, be sure you puncture the bags in several places to insure air circulation. The nurserymen pack tubers in orange crates. First a layer of peat moss is put in the bottom of crate; bulbs are gently laid in; a stiff piece of cardboard goes on top of bulbs; more peat moss . . . more bulbs, until crate is full.

Just as we put tubers to sleep, we begin to think of the hundreds of other bulbs that are about to come awake. Daffodils, iris, crocus, ixias, chionodoxa, all do well in this locality. There are hundreds of interesting bulbs that may be planted in October and November, but it is wise to get your bulb catalogue and slowly go crazy trying to make selections. The catalogues say definitely: "no orders accepted after November," so hurry, hurry, hurry.

I know of no more stunning arrangement than several hundred Dutch iris massed together as background for other bulbs. This may sound like a horrendous expense, but Dutch iris costs only about 60 cents a dozen, so you see you can afford this luxury. One thing about bulbs: once you have paid for them, they go on and on, year after year, requiring small care. One thing should be remembered: iris and daffodils cannot be removed from the ground for at least four years—and the green tops must be left to die back by themselves.

These browning tops do not look so well about July, but there is a trick to obviate this unsightly dying-back.

ing-back. After spring bulbs have been planted, scatter seeds over the bulbs: godetta, clarkia, Virginia stock, baby-blue-eyes. This should be done in November or December. Then, when the bulbs sink back to rest, the tall spires of the flowers mentioned take over and mass themselves to shield the weary bulbs.

Another way to avoid this dying-back in the garden is to plant bulbs in pots, then sink pots in the ground. When the blooming period is over, remove pots to a dry, sheltered spot. Go away and forget all about your bulbs until next planting time.

CURRENT LITERATURE GROUP

Alec Merivale will give an informal talk on Ghost Stories, in the spirit of Hallowe'en preparation, before Mrs. Glenn Clairmonte's Current Literature Group next Tuesday, October 11, at 7:30 p. m. The public is invited to attend the meeting, which will be held in room 11 of Sunset School. Mr. Merivale was educated at Eton and at Kings College, Cambridge University, and has since been pursuing his scholarly interests.

Imagine having your bathroom tiled in mother-of-pearl! THE CARMEL FLOOR COVERING CO. can make this possible with their new Tilemaster. A completely new design in plastic, it is much thicker and richer looking than any other plastic tile. Tilemaster comes in 30 different colors including all of the pastel shades. Also, marbled and plain tiles are available in distinctive designs with solid color borders in contrasting shades. THE CARMEL FLOOR COVERING CO. on Mission street in Carmel has the Monterey Peninsula exclusive on Tilemaster, so if you're building a new home or just thinking of remodeling that tired old bathroom, investigate. And THE CARMEL FLOOR COVERING CO. will give you three years to pay. What more could you ask for?

The easy way to fly-proof your home permanently is Tensionite screens for double hung windows. These all aluminum screens are easily removed for cleaning from the inside of the house. THE CARMEL FLOOR COVERING CO. also has the Rollaway screen (obviously, it rolls up) and the new Kaiser aluminum shade screen for you to see—out of, that is.

Will Canasta replace Bridge? Everyone may have a different opinion on this controversial subject, therefore my remarks are devoted solely to those advocates of that fascinating new South American rummy game, Canasta. At HOLMAN'S BOOK DEN in Pacific Grove there are three of the finest books on Canasta. "The Complete Canasta" by Ralph Michels gives a most complete and accurate coverage of the game as well as making it easy to understand. "Canasta" (Argentine Rummy Game), by Otilie H. Reilly, gives the complete rules along with expert instruction. Oswald Jacoby's "How to Win at Canasta" has new secrets of quick mastery for the beginner as well as the expert, by the world's leading authority. These excellent aids in strategy and playing are available at HOLMAN'S BOOK DEN for $1.00-$1.75. Air your game and give the bridge players a bad time.

Not only is HARRIET DUNCAN ahead in fall casuals but in the accessories to complement them—and you. Smart new Calderon belts of handmade calfskin in white, blue-navy, persimmon, antique red, pumpkin, black, avocado green, and brown, trimmed in brazen brass horse heads, fleur-de-lis, crowns, discs, etc. To blend with these important belts are stunning handbags in hearty elk and calf skins, with the new tailored pouch look. These are ideal for that new suit or casual outfit, and the bright medallion in the center of the bag gives a gay glitter to any costume. Actually these wonderful bags are only from $14.95 to $17.95 and come in autumn reds, tans, copper and green. Oh yes, I forgot to mention the good news that the 20 per cent federal tax doesn't apply to the Calderon leather belts, even though the handbags are still taxable.

HARRIET DUNCAN asked me to mention the new, new coin jewelry—how could I forget! It comes in gold and silver, and there are bracelets, necklaces, pins, and earrings galore at such a moderate price! See for yourself how really inexpensive they are.

The Hostess Room of THE CARMEL GROCERY now has for the true tea connoisseur, Five Dynasty, a vintage Lapsang Souchong tea. This exceptional tea is grown only in a small district of Fu-kien Province in China. It has a rich, haunting, smoky flavor entirely distinctive to itself. In the days of dynastic China such a noble vintage was reserved exclusively for the Emperor and his court. The imperial or Souchong leaf could be picked only by the hands of maidens, to safeguard its delicate, subtly fragrant flavor. Such a tea was for the Chinese, the Plant of Heaven, and a treasure of the world, so it can be for you. Though expensive, as teas go, Five Dynasty makes twice as many cups to the pound as ordinary tea. In any size, it is a gift which pays tribute to the taste of both the donor and recipient. Five Dynasty is now available for you at THE CARMEL GROCERY. Once tasted no other tea will satisfy.

LE GOURMET shop in the Pine Inn has so many new and exciting things to talk about that I don't know quite where to begin. There are all of those delicious imported delicacies for your table and parties, and the adorable stuffed animals—let's begin with them. There are giraffes, dachshunds, pink elephants, silly spaniels, woolly lambs, sassy kola bears, zebras, pandas (Humphrey Bogart now has one), monkeys, leopards that never change their spots, and kittens. These lovable animals are not only for the delight of the younger members of the family but for everyone from grandmere on down. Each one plays an individual tune such as Brahms Lullaby, Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf, Mary Had a Little Lamb, and Where Has My Little Doggie Gone. They are so cuddly and cute every family should have at least one.

LE GOURMET is the only place I know of on the west coast where you can buy tangy spice cakes imported from Holland and real Scotch shortening bread made by an old Scotchman who's been making it from the same "old" recipe for over twenty years. LE GOURMET also has a marvelous assortment of Peet Freans biscuits from London. You have never tasted such crisp, flavorful biscuits and wafers in your life—LE GOURMET has samples for you to try. Once you've tasted them, nothing can stop you from buying Peet Freans biscuits. There is even a "playbox" for the children.

Everyone loves Blums confections and ice creams but do you know that nowhere else in the vicinity can you buy such a complete assortment of "Blums" than at LE GOURMET? They have Blums fruit cakes, puddings, complete line of candies, all flavors of ice creams and sherbets. It's all so delicious.

LE GOURMET has anything you could possibly want along the unusual in food, and don't forget their magnificent wine selection. It is even a treat to visit the shop—like taking a world tour in gastronomy.

BALZER'S (next door to the post office) have some cunning corduroy jumpers for little girls. They are in sizes from 3-5 in green, blue, gray, and bright red, only $1.95. To tuck under these gay (and ever so practical) jumpers are white cotton blouses with three-quarter sleeves and dainty lace trim, for the finishing touch a perky black bow at the neck. Your young daughter can afford to be well dressed for $1.69. BALZER'S also have these same washable corduroys in $3.95 Missy (sizes 8-12) skirts. They have a smart tailored look with loops for her favorite belt. In Christmas red and green corduroy BALZER'S have slacks for the junior miss for $4.95. Every young girl should have at least one pair. They will be a blessing to you mothers. Only at BALZER'S.

CHOSEN CHORAL LEADER

Appointment of Thomas L. Griffin of Carmel as new director of the Monterey Peninsula Masonic Choir, has been announced by Andrew E. Del Monte, president of the organization. Assistant director will be Mr. Wallace H. Lowry. Mr. Griffin is remembered as director of the Peninsula Male Chorus during 1946. A graduate of the famous Westminster Choir College, he has held several important choral direction posts in the east and Southern California. Mr. Lowry has been associated with the Masonic Choir for several years and is in charge of the Fellowship group.

Regular rehearsals are held every Monday evening at 8 p.m.

BUSINESSWOMAN HAS UNUSUAL BACKGROUND

If you happen to be a consulting engineer and a success in an almost exclusively male field, how do you realize a secret ambition to design millinery? If you're Catherine Fisher, you take up a dare from friends and are lucky enough to be taken on by one of New York's top designers. You are also lucky to have the talent to achieve your aim.

For the past twelve years Miss Fisher has continued her practice as a consulting engineer, in New York and in Chicago, has managed her own millinery shops and designed for manufacturer. A month ago, having searched all California for a suitable location, she came to Carmel one day and found herself in business the next, completely fascinated with the village. Engineering is out the window, and Miss Fisher is devoting her time exclusively to her new millinery shop on Lincoln Street, where she is known as Catherine of Carmel.

J. Catherwood

Masonic funeral rites were conducted Wednesday by the Monterey Masonic Lodge for Joseph Fiske Catherwood, who was killed Sunday night in a motor truck accident near his home on Jack's Peak.

He was 40 years of age and had lived in Monterey for 20 years where he owned and operated a cleaning establishment. Mr. Catherwood was a veteran of World War II and a member of a number of organizations including California Lodge No. 1, F. and A. M. of San Francisco; American Legion Post No. 41 of Monterey; Lodge 1285 B. P. O. E., Monterey; Islam Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., San Francisco; San Jose Consistory No. 9, Scottish Rite; Monterey Shrine Club; Loyal Order of Moose, Lodge 876, Monterey, and also a Monterey county deputy sheriff.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Jeanette Catherwood of Jack's Peak, and a daughter, Mrs. Claire Catherwood Henderson of Monterey.

Lettie Blanchard

Mrs. Lettie Blanchard, a 35 year resident of Carmel, died Tuesday at her home at Santa Fe and Mountain View, at the age of 81.

Mrs. Blanchard was born in Haverhill, N. H., but had lived in California for over 40 years. Due to recent failing health she had been attended by a great-niece, Janet Leslie Snow, who came from New England to be with her.

Miss Snow is Mrs. Blanchard's surviving relative. Funeral services were held yesterday in the T. A. Dorney Chapel, with a Christian Science reader officiating.

money in recent years through the sale of bonds to finance construction. The company would have to raise $1,000,000 from the sale of common stock and $500,000 from the sale of preferred stock in 1950 which he stated could not be done at a reasonable cost on the basis of the present earning power.

Claude Rosenberg, company attorney asked for an interim rate increase. Wesley Kergan, acting in the absence of Roy A. Wehe, for the three peninsula cities, objected. The meeting was adjourned until December 14, when the three cities will present their case. In the first hearing, the cities entered only a formal objection. Two citizens also offered objections on grounds of unsatisfactory service. They were Mrs. Catherine Patterson of Seaside and Mr. Ray Chavoya of Monterey.

SUNSET SCHOOL NOTES

Last Wednesday Pat Casey came to Sunset School to talk to Mrs. Jordan's seventh grade about finger printing. We had read about it in science so we enjoyed it very much.

He brought some finger printing equipment — a camera, a finger printing set, and some pictures. He told us about the different kinds of patterns on our finger tips, and how they could tell one person's fingerprints from another. After he had explained quite a bit, he demonstrated the method of taking prints. Jimmy Hallett and some others were finger printed. Then Don Rowe put his prints on the window and Pat put some black powder on them so they would show up. When he could see them clearly, he took a picture of them. He ended his talk by telling how to work the camera. We liked his talk very much.

—Sarah McCloud, Grade 7.

Note: Pat Casey, a former student of Sunset School, is now attending San Jose State College. He returned to San Jose last week to begin his sophomore year.

FISH STORIES

Once when we went fishing, we caught lots of fish—and they practically filled up the boat.

—Michael Blaney.

Once we went fishing and we caught two fish—THAT big.

—Donna Croop.

Once we went down to the beach and I caught a fish by my hand. Just a little tiny one.

—Mardi Lloyd.

Once I digged to a sand-crab.

—Rodney Ransome.

I went down to the beach with my friend and I caught a crab.

—Courtney Carswell.

Once we went down to the beach and I was digging in the water. And I found some fish—big ones.

—Michael Dodd.

Once we went craw fishing and we caught a lot of fish.

—Penny Nielsen.

Once my sister was going up to Menlo Park to visit for a week with my mother's grandmother. We went to the beach first and I almost stepped on a big, big crab.

—Mary Elizabeth Martin.

Once we went to the beach and we found a crab and threw it back in the water and then tried to get it again.

—Lynn Prindle.

A long time ago, I caught a great big fish at the beach—with a fishing pole too.

—Tommy Griffin.

AT SCHOOL

I want them (the people of Carmel) to know we're learning to read.

—Mary Elizabeth Martin.

We have fishes in our school room.

—Mardi Lloyd.

We have some clay. We play with it.

—Jean Eagleton.

I like to color in our number books.

—Mark Sloane.

We finger paint and make all kinds of things. I make fish and sometimes aquariums with fish swimming in it and diving down—like our real fish do.

—Lynn Prindle.

I like to play outside.

—Michael Cranston.

We have puppet shows. We have fish puppets. The big one is the teacher—Miss Gribble Fish.

—Kathie Fobes.

OUTSIDE SCHOOL

Once at Loland's house there was a mother and daddy mice. And some little tiny mice—little tiny ones. Loland's mother threw them in the chicken house and they ate them up cause they were eating up their food.

—David Roberts.

My brother is going to have a party this coming Friday but some of the people can't come—so we're having them tomorrow night for dessert.

—Diane Shields.

I'm going to move tomorrow. I'm moving four blocks from the post office.

—Mary Martin.

In a week or so, a friend of mine is going to have a puppy show and invite me to it. They're going to have real puppies too.

—Jean Eagleton.

Last night we tried to catch a little mice and put him outside.

But he ran away. We had to get a flashlight. When he looked at us, he looked sad. That's one thing my mother doesn't like. He'll probably eat our house. What I'd like to do is keep him in a box.

—Michael Cranston.

I went to a swimming pool and I learned to swim.

—Jane Tetley.

One night my dad made some pictures. One of them is of my dog when he was little. And it's cute.

—Paul Rice

Once down on the beach we dug a hole. And we dug to water.

—Jean Eagleton.

Once, you know, that I saw a bottle and the top that was on the milk went wht—right off itself.

—Michael Cranston

DOLORES SCHOOL Mrs. Katherine French First Grade Teacher

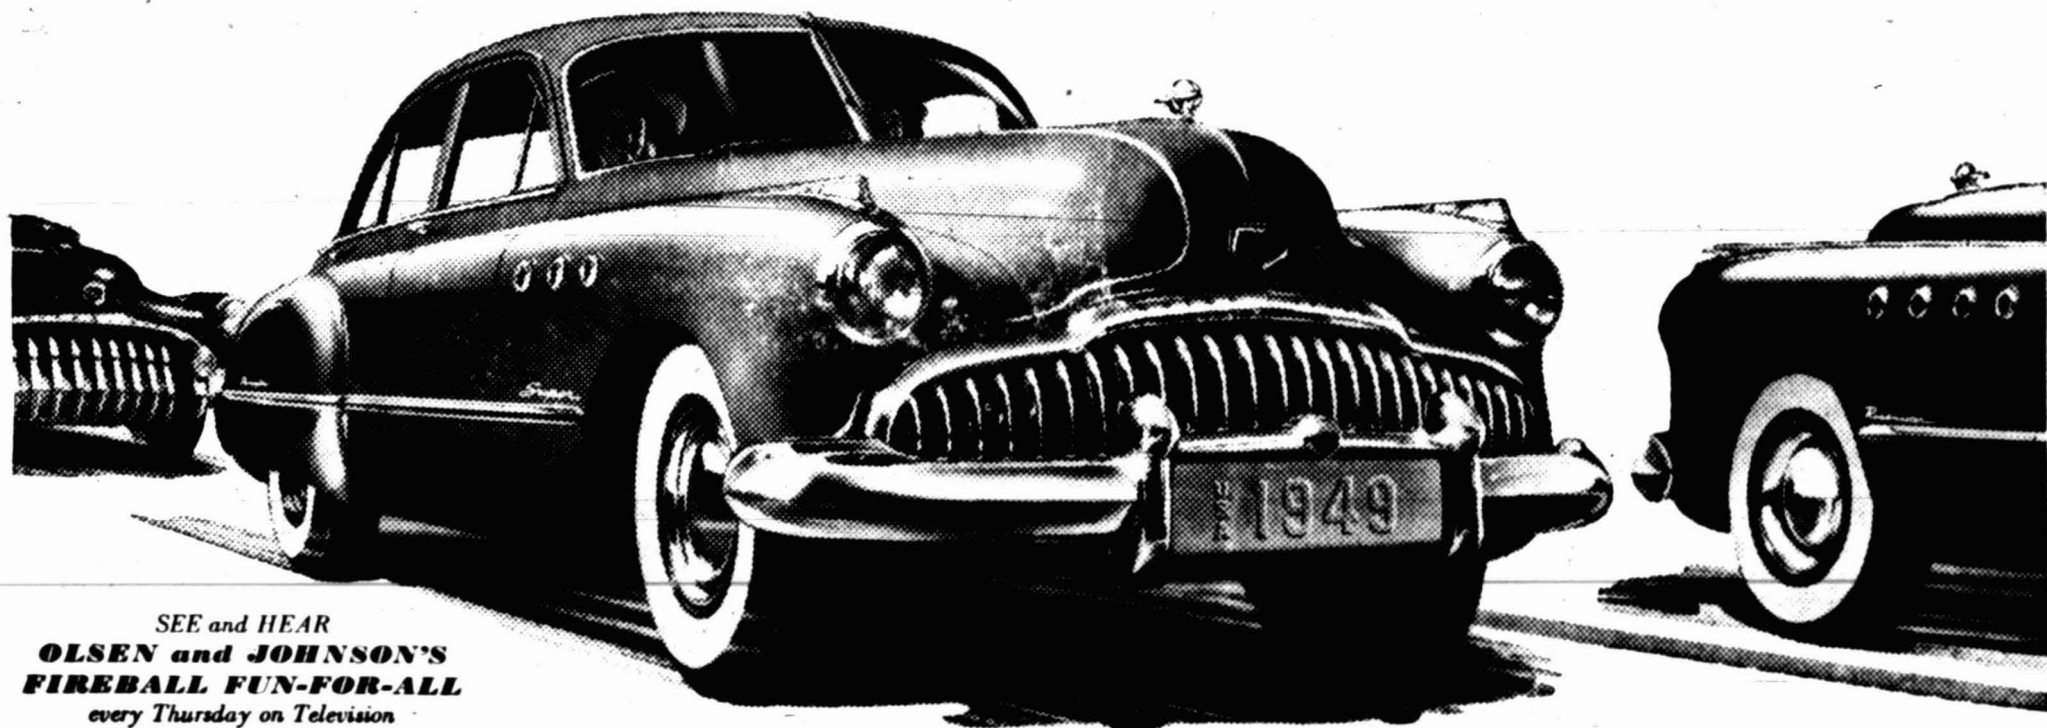

One hundred nineteen Carmel children have entered the new Dolores School. They are in kindergarten, first, second, third, and fourth grades. The children, among them our war babies, have come with great expectations. Happily, these expectations are justified by this latest neighborhood school.

Here the grade enrollment is placed at 25, which is a classroom size a teacher can cope with adequately, giving the pupils the individual attention they should have. Here the child's comfort and welfare have been uppermost in school planning, with resultant radiant heating and many windows which light the classrooms with—

"Buick's the Buy"

It's part of every street scene—something you see every day.

Car owners in three different price classes—all happy about the same thing.

Another will tell you there's nothing like the SUPER's "happy medium" of size and comfort, power and easy handling, style and standing.

And if you're looking for prestige, where is your money going to buy so much as in that handsome 18-footer, the ROADMASTER, with its 150-hp performance and really royal bearing?

But all these good folks get together on this:

There's no ride quite so soft and cushiony as the Buick ride, whatever the size and series. There's no power quite so satisfyingly lively as Buick's high-compression, high-pressure Fireball power.

Above all, there's no "buy" like a Buick—no car that gives you such a rich dollar's worth of smartness, handling, comfort and liveliness for every dollar you pay.

So why not look the whole line over? Your Buick dealer has these grand travel-mates in a baker's dozen of different body types and sizes. Start your shopping in his showroom—and you'll find that even on delivery he has exactly what you want.

BUICK alone has all these features

Silk-smooth DYNAFLOW DRIVE* • FULL-VIEW VISION from enlarged glass area • SWING-EASY DOORS and easy access • "LIVING SPACE" INTERIORS with Deep-Cradle cushions • Buoyant-riding QUADRIFLEX COIL SPRINGING • Lively FIREBALL STRAIGHT-EIGHT POWER with SELF-SETTING VALVE LIFTERS (Dynaflo Models) plus HI-POISED ENGINE MOUNTINGS • Low-pressure tires on SAFETY-RIDE RIMS • Double-Duty VENTIPORTS • DUREX BEARINGS, main and connecting rods • BODY BY FISHER

Do You Remember . . . ?

THE QUARTER, 1910

BY A. G. WARSHAWSKY

To the staccato accompaniment of the driver's whip, we crossed at full speed a tiny bridge on the outskirts of St. Jean-du-Doight and drew up in the quaint little square, the terminus of our journey. At the "Maison Perrin," facing on to this square, where we were to put up, we were greeted by the luncheon bell, a most welcome sound after the long journey. Nor were we disappointed in our first Breton meal, which was as copious and well prepared as at the Soleil d'Or, of happy memory. Like M. Espagnon, Madame Perrin was a "cordon bleu," having served as cook in a Parisian family, where her husband had been employed as manservant. After several years' service the proverbial "mal du pays" of the Breton had lured them back to their country, where they had invested their economies in a small hotel, which, thanks to Madame's excellent cooking and her husband's all-round efficiency, had prospered. In the eyes of their progeny, a nine-year-old boy, the arrival of two real Americans was an event, for it was his belief that we came from a land where pitched battles and pursuits between scalping Indians and leather-stockinged white men were the order of the day, even in the streets of New York. I doubt whether today, the native small boy in the remotest corner of Brittany, is able to entertain such happy illusions or to get such a thrill as young Master Perrin received from frequenting the society of compatriots of Buffalo Bill, for he was soon our devoted companion.

Mlle. Renee and her artist friend, a square-shouldered, frank-eyed young Frenchman, whom we met in the dining room, made us heartily welcome; so that we soon felt as much at home as at Vernon. Surely once more "la douce France" had deserved its name!

As for Brittany itself, the vaunted Painter's Eden, that, too, was no usurped reputation. Within stone's throw of the hotel was the churchyard, containing a tiny cemetery, all abloom and fragrant with rose bushes and flowering shrubs, carefully tended, and happily masking, at least to some extent, the pitiful wire and glass wreaths piously suspended from crosses and tombstones, which disfigure French country churchyards. And clustering round the gray old church there were picturesque thatch-covered cottages with black-gowned, white-coiffed peasant women coming and going about their daily occupations just as they had been doing for centuries, bringing back childhood recollections of fairy-tale scenes in picture books.

About half a mile away lay the beach, a stretch of very flat sand, overhung by high cliffs, where at low tide one would have to wade out a goodly distance before reaching sufficient depth for swimming. The road there lay through shady lanes, with lovely glimpses of the sea peeping through the trees, only here and there, more quaint old cottages in the foreground, pleading to be painted.

One afternoon when the tide had gone out an exceptionally long distance, Mathes and I, observing some strange looking thing wriggling in the shadow of a rock, turned it over, and there, among damp weeds, we found a large, dark, shining lobster. I took off my old painting coat and we managed to shoo him into its folds. Thus secured and bundled up, we bore our struggling captive back to the hotel. Next day Mr. Lobster, in scarlet magnificence, appeared on our table, as succulent within as he was splendid without. He was our first and last capture, for hunt as we would—and we did—leaving no rock unturned that could be turned—we never met his like again.

Every morning neighboring fishermen would bring abundant catches to the hotel door for Mme. Perrin to choose from. The savory sea dishes she would prepare for us are among my

INTIMATIONS

*Coiled snake passed unnoticed,
Tree that fell too soon,
Or tangled steel at midnight
Where you drove safe at noon,
False ladder to some other
Grim plane you didn't fly;
Who feels the gaunt wings hover
While still they shadow by?*

—J. S. MOODY.

BIRTHDAY

*How softly breathes the messenger of time,
Not flickering the flame upon the festive candle.
How short my love, the memory gone,
Soiled by each passing satin sandal.*

*How still the shadows on the panels,
Dark the portraits line the wall.
Great men, my father's fathers?
Flesh has not learned to reach its call.*

*A dinner planned to please the senses;
For that my colleagues came to dine.
And this thin stem my fingers circle.
See our faces distorted in the wine.*

*Friends? The word seems empty, kind.
Chosen yesterday while still a child.
What untold harm we wrought together!
No matter now, our thoughts are mild.*

*"My birthday wish? Oh, yes—
This room, these faces, all, next year."
What strength have I to change a single word?
I have forgotten you, my dear.*

—ELIZABETH HOLT SUTTON.

THE SEA IS MINE

*How often have I walked this beach, alone—
Though lovers with their blankets strew the sands
Or race the wind, with summer in their hands—
And I . . . with none whom I may call my own!
White cottages look down from seawall height,
Grey gables pointing to dark headland skies:
Their seaward-staring windows, with blind eyes,
House youth and lust of living's brief delight.*

*How often must I face this lonely sea—
The rock, the wave, the gull for company?
Never the bonfire's glow, the midnight song:
Not to the bonds of flesh do I belong.
Leave them their "loaf of bread," their "jug of wine"—
Mine is the wind, the tides . . . the sea is mine!*

—BLANCHE DEGOOD LOFTON.

most abiding gastronomic memories. There was a plentiful supply of good salads, but a scarcity of vegetables, the staple being potatoes, which were served at every meal; for the Breton, like his Celtic brother, the Irish, feeds mainly on the tubercle. Green vegetables, so plentiful in other provinces of France, hardly figure on the Breton menu. Meat is also mostly limited to veal and pork.

The weather was delightful, warm and sunny, pleasantly tempered by the ocean breezes. I profited by the few rainy days we had in painting the courtyard below my window, which, with its grass-grown, flag-stoned pavement, bundles of fagots leaning against an old wall, slate covered roofs, stained by gray and ochre colored moss, against background of neighboring fields, the various greens chastened by the falling rain, and a silver glimpse of the sea near the horizon, made a charming subject.

Window views are always a delight to me and a field for a variety of pictures. Humble, everyday objects, when seen from this higher angle, acquire an added pictorial significance. And so it is in sunlight and the rain, frost any snow, early light and evening shadows. Seen from a window they take on strange patterns, poetic fancies, and inner meanings, which I often fail to find elsewhere.

From the steep hills I experimented looking directly into the sea, striving to paint the sensation of depth; and the luminous colors playing over the shifting surfaces. My immediate foreground was the warm colored earth and great patches of golden gorse, contrasting with the deep blue and purple of the water. I showed no horizon. The finished results were unconventional, to say the least, and a far cry from the academic conception of a picture.

It was vital and primitive to work in this way, influenced by nature only and entirely untrammelled by conventions and academic theories and all that relates to the production of pretty pictures—an attempt of sheer self-expression, inspired by the all-enveloping wonders about me. After a few hours of tense and concentrated painting, I would find myself completely worn out, with a feeling of overwhelming disappointment and impotency after comparing my canvas with the majesty and beauty of my subject. Even the most beautiful colors on a palette are mud as compared with the colors of nature tinted by the magic rays of the sun. A canvas is a flat piece of prepared linen upon which light, and above all, depth, must be suggested. Genius, of course, has overcome these handicaps through the miracle of imagination and tremendous craftsmanship. At times in front of the masterpieces of Claude Monet I have experienced the same sensations of delight that I have felt before Nature. Those unexpected effects of light and marvelous transitions of color playing over his canvases I have seen time and again out-of-doors.

Even a failure is well worth while. Out of many and mighty struggles may come the one precious and perfect work. The layman cannot conceive the agony of mind with which every creative artist is at times beset. Even material and physical distress, which is the artist's all too common fate, compare lightly with the mental anguish he endures while struggling to realize his idea. To the sensitive and sincere artist the gap between his vision and its realization is always an infinite one. Rembrandt, on his death bed, ached for the greater works he wished to do; and the kindly Papa Corot had visions of even lovelier landscapes than the idyllic masterpieces he had created.

Dounies, the young French painter and "protector" of Renee, was mostly occupied painting his "petite amie" out-of-doors where she would pose for him decollete or seminude. I glimpsed them sometimes in the unfrequented pine woods high up on the slopes or down on the beach, where he would paint studies of her, half hidden among the rocks.

(To be continued next week)

Five Carmelites Impressed With P. G. & E. Projects

Dr. William F. Coughlin, Ernest Morehouse, Harold Nielsen and Cliff Cook accepted the invitation of Lloyd Weer, local manager of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. to accompany him on the P. G. and E. Feather River tour last week. The group left Tuesday afternoon by chartered bus for Niles, where they boarded a special Pullman train carrying some 300 guests from different districts as far north as Napa and as far south as King City.

On Wednesday morning the group began the bus tour of the P. G. & E. Feather River projects—Cresta Power House, Cresta Dam, Rock Creek Power House, Rock Creek Dam and Bucks Creek Power House. For 16 miles along the canyon they watched men and machines working to harness the horsepower of the vigorous river. Miles of enormous water tunnels, up to 27 feet in diameter, are being cut there, and dams are being built which will create new lakes up to three miles long.

They inspected construction on the two hydroelectric power plants, Cresta, which is scheduled for completion this winter, and Rock Creek, which is due for operation early in 1950. The two projects will together generate up to 270,000 new electric horsepower.

The local group returned to Carmel late Wednesday night, impressed by what they had seen and having enjoyed the tour from beginning to end.

HI CHATTER

By Peter Lyon

If you happen to live near the high school (and perhaps if you don't) you may have heard a lot of noise and commotion along about noon time. No, I don't mean the usual noise and commotion when the inmates are let out to eat, but more the roll of drums and the tramp of marching feet. Well, if you guess that we're forming a Communist Youth Organization you're wrong, but if you should say that perhaps Carmel High has a new band, go to the head of the class; you're right.

After many years of being put to shame by visiting high school bands, Carmel has become aroused and has organized their own band under the able baton of John Farr. The noise you have heard is their practice session out on the lawn, where they go through marching and noisemaking drills, led on by Lanny Doolittle. Following in Lanny's footsteps are Pablo Polick, Connie McKibben, Alan Reyburn, Ann Thoeni, Gilbert Neil, Pat Merivale, Jim Harget and Tom McGlinn, to mention just a few. Probably the lion's share of the credit goes to jovial Mr. Farr, who has worked long and hard on this band of ours, and is greatly responsible for the fine progress the musicians have made.

If the band continues to progress at its present rate, we'll soon be able to show those visiting bands a thing or two, believe me!

It looks as if the seniors are going to inaugurate the 1949 social season at Carmel high with their up and coming dance this Saturday night. The theme of the dance is French, and the High School cafeteria will be transformed into a French cafe with all the trimmings. There'll be a real honest-to-goodness orchestra, and the combination for the French atmosphere, soft music and the fact that the seniors are putting the dance on should prove reason enough for everyone to come. Let's make this first dance a real success! See you there!

CAT VICTIM OF HIT-RUN

A one-year-old male Siamese cat was taken to Dr. Craig in Seaside on Monday evening, the victim of a hit-run accident at Second and Santa Fe streets. Waler Kreisler was returning from Monterey at about 8 p. m. when he found the animal, which was suffering from a broken jaw. The unknown owner of the cat is urged to telephone the Kreislers for further details.

There Are Still Several Openings In County Symphony

A few openings in the Monterey County Symphony must be filled. There are additional chairs in the bassoon and oboe sections. The three principal string divisions need augmenting. Of equal importance to the student or music-lover who plays no instrument is the unfilled position of librarian. So far the group numbers fifty.

Applicants should get in touch with the conductors or appear at Carmel High School for rehearsal on Monday night at 7:30.

Haydn's Symphony No. 92 (Oxford), a seldom heard Polonaise of Rimsky-Korsakov's and other works are already in rehearsal under the batons of co-conductors Clifford Anderson and Lorell McCann. These compositions have been scheduled for the first performance on November 29.

MUSIC CLASS HEARS TALK BY PATRICK COLEMAN

Patrick Coleman, concert master of the Monterey County Symphony, was guest speaker at last week's session of the Music Appreciation Class, which is held on Thursdays at 7:30 p. m. at the high school.

John Farr, instructor, has arranged to have Daniel Snell, clarinetist with the County Symphony, out glare and do not require electricity on the darkest days. A small gadget called a Vapor Roll refreshes the air chemically and reduces colds. The asphalt tile flooring is pleasant underfoot, while the sound proofing of the ceilings keeps young voices.

Each classroom has an outdoor room or patio, almost as large as the room itself, where children can work and play in the open air and get as much sun as Carmel affords. Each classroom can be darkened by heavy curtains for movies. A screen is on the wall ready to be pulled down. The new Victor projector can be operated by each teacher. Among the equipment are a film-strip projector, phonographs and a duplicating machine.

The Dolores School is not forgotten by Miss Morrow, the school nurse, who has office hours here twice daily. The special teachers for shop, art, and music come once a week.

Most of the children are eating their noon meal at school—a lunch from home or the hot lunch prepared by Mrs. Anderson in the cafeteria. To relieve the teachers at noon, the mothers have volunteered their services, and they are graciously supervising the lunchroom. The teachers are delighted, not only by this generous offer and the midday rest it gives them, but by the opportunity it affords to have the mothers at school as participants.

Among the many conveniences and unique features of the Dolores School, beauty comes in for its large share of credit. Pleasing in its modern architecture, it has a setting of green lawn. The grass, when it is a little older, is to be played on, and young knees will get a minimum of scuffing. Flower boxes and beds of flowers add color.

For baseball there is the usual gravel playground, enclosed by a high wire fence. Swings, a slide, horizontal bars, a jungle gym, and sand boxes offer variety.

Fortunate are the children of Carmel! School days are happy, busy, interesting, and profitable. The Dolores Public School has gone a long way toward living up to childhood's great expectations.

MY VACATION

The first Sunday that school was out I went to the house of my friend, Gordon Parker. I stayed there all night. The next day Gordon and I were up early. We played for a while before breakfast. Then I sat down for a minute. I must have sat down in a yellow-jackets' nest for they sure came after me. I ran into the house and ducked my head in water and two yellowjackets came out. One stung Mrs. Parker so I ran out as fast as I could. Later on, I found out that I had been stung three times in the head, once in the neck, and three times in the left leg.

A few days later I moved up the Valley near Carmel Valley. Later I went horseback riding at Holman's Ranch. Then Bruce Kramer came out to stay with me a couple of nights. We took hikes. Then Sidney Trevett came out to my house for a couple of nights. We played baseball, took hikes, and went down to see the planes. About a week before school opened I moved back to Carmel.

OUR SUMMER VACATION

Our vacation was exceptionally good last summer. We took a trip up the Redwood Highway through the biggest redwoods in America. We saw the tallest known redwood in the world. It is the Founder's Tree. It is 364 feet tall. The first night we drove up as far as Eureka and stayed over night there. The next night we drove up to the Oregon Caves. Chipmunks were everywhere. We had the best guide there. He had been working at the caves for almost fifty years and knew every nook and cranny in the place.

That day we drove up through the beautiful pine forests in Oregon, up to Crater Lake. That night a ranger gave a lecture on the National Parks and how important the conservation of the forests, birds, flowers and animals are. He also told how much happier people would be if they took more time to study nature. We got up about seven o'clock in the morning and went to the cafeteria to eat. There were lots of chipmunks there, too. They live on the cliff that goes down to the lake. We went down the trail that leads to the lake. It was steep and winding. It is a mile and a half down and seems like ten miles back.

We finally got down to the edge of the lake. It was so blue you'd think they dumped blueing in it. We rented a boat and rowed out on the lake. There are two islands in Crater Lake, Wizard Island and Phantom Ship. A launch takes a tour of the lake at 1 o'clock every afternoon.

We took the inland route down through Redding, Red Bluff, Corning, and many other towns. In San Francisco we had our first ride on a cable car. We drove on home the next day—Jeanne Reyburn.

MY SUMMER VACATION

After school was out I went home to get ready for a little trip. After we were all packed we started for Clear Lake.

By the time we got there it was dark. After awhile we found a place to stay. The next morning I woke up at 4:30 and went fishing but I didn't catch a single fish so I went back to our cabin.

A little later we went fishing again and this time I caught a fish. It was the first fish caught in the family. The second day we went fishing again. I didn't catch a fish this time. The third day we went for a ride around Clear Lake. The fourth day we started home. I stayed at our house here in Carmel for a few days. Then my brothers and I went down to our ranch in Big Sur. We stayed there for a month and a half and later I went to camp for four weeks. Then I came back to Carmel and stayed the rest of the time here and when school started I was all ready.—Newell Roger.

MY VACATION

A few days after school stopped I went to a Girl Scout camp. We slept in sleeping bags every night. We would sing songs and play games. We went swimming every day.

When I came home we went to Lake Tahoe. We stayed at Emerald Bay. The first day a man let us go on a motor boat ride. We saw a lot of movies. The second day we went fishing. We didn't catch anything. The man who took us fishing took us around the lake. We had lots of fun. I got some pictures there. After we went to Reno, Nevada, we went to my uncle's house and he took us all around Reno. We ate at the Mesa and stayed all night at a motel.

Then we went to the Feather River. We went swimming and played golf. We saw two fires on the way home. Then we bought some clothes for school. I didn't want to come back, but I was glad when I came back.

—Susan Costagna

The most interesting part of my vacation was my day-visit to the San Diego zoo. I toured the zoo in a bus. The driver told us the names of the different animals. Some of the bears were tame so, so that when the driver threw bread to them, they did tricks.

Among the most interesting things I saw there were many species of snakes. It was very interesting to watch them coil up and to do many other things.

They also had a very fine collection of birds. Of the bird collection I like the parrots best. They were very beautiful with their many colored feathers.

—Milton Marquard

Show them you care—give all you can

Keeping children healthy, happy and out of trouble... providing care for the handicapped and aged... your Community Chest dollars work hard for the welfare, dignity and self-respect of human beings.

Just once each year, a Community Chest volunteer calls at your door. He represents many agencies—hospitals and clinics, child-care centers, the Scouts—organizations which make your town a better place to live.

So when you make your pledge, remember it must go a long way. Please give generously... for the dollars you give will bring a lot of happiness to others—and a lot to you.

Dr. Billie's Garden

By L. A. W.

Guess the little orchard will come along pretty well after all. Folks thought Bess and I were supreme optimists to set out a bunch of young fruit trees at our time of life. (Optimist was not the term I heard applied to us and our tree-planting project. B.) But, by jingo, they have begun to produce, not abundantly but enough to show their good intentions.

The little Red Siberian crabapple tree, only two years in the ground, came across with 50 or so of the cutest darned little apples you ever saw. A deep, dark red they were. Bess had me pick them with the stems left on and she made two pints of spiced crabapple pickles for us to use this winter with cold meats. In the jar they look like big cherries.

The peach trees, in spite of my best preventive measures — Bordeaux mixture—couldn't fight off the curly leaf this year. Still they produced fruit enough for table use. Last year we had some to can but not this year. Yet, they've paid their way. We'll keep them for a while yet.

The White Paimain (if that's how you spell it) apple produced three large and beautiful fruits this year. Hardly a bumper crop but it's a promise of what can be expected as the little tree takes on size and strength. It's a husky and will take over a lot of what has been garden.

Perhaps that will be a good thing, too. For a while it may be well to put a few more currant bushes and berry vines around the orchard patch. That means pull in my horns on beans and cabbages and shorten my rows of other stuff. I might have better luck with succession planting if I had to be a little more intensive in my use of ground.

I'd better get out and do some watering and gather vegetables for dinner. S' long.

JANE VIAL, SOCIAL EDITOR

Robert Spencer Honored

Colonel Joseph J. Johnston, president of the Reserve Officers' Association of the Monterey Peninsula, paid tribute to Major Robert Spencer of Carmel last Friday evening, presenting him with a past-president's key. Colonel Johnston commended Major Spencer on his service to the association and expressed appreciation on behalf of all the members, of his numerous accomplishments. Major Spencer is now serving as area chairman of the Reserve Officers' Association for the counties of Monterey, Santa Cruz and San Benito.

About 150 members and their wives were present for the occasion, which was a buffet supper-dance at the Navy Club at the General Line School.

Wilders Give Barbecue

Almost 50 guests enjoyed a barbecue in the patio of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Wilder's Carmel Valley home recently. Couples and families who were present for the all-day affair were Mr. and Mrs. Don Barry, Mr. and Mrs. George Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Cree Wilder, Mr. and Mrs. George Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Donald McKenzie, Mr. and Mrs. Van Schultz, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff LaNeve, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. George Crow, Mr. and Mrs. Truman Scarlett, Mr. and Mrs. John Dawson of Berkeley, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Sheppard, Mrs. Sheppard and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hoyt of Wheatland, Wyoming, and Mary Jane Aldrich.

Legion Dance Planned

Good news for Carmel American Legion members and their guests is the announcement of a dance to be held in the Legion Hall on Saturday, October 8. Marty Artellan's orchestra will play for the affair, which will be open from 9 p. m. to 2 a. m., and there will be refreshments as well as games to work up an appetite for them. No admission will be charged.

At a regular meeting of the Legion on Monday evening, plans were discussed for keeping the hall open every Saturday and making it a top-flight recreation spot for members and guests.

Padre Trails Banquet

At the Padre Trails Camera Club's first annual banquet Saturday evening, at 6 o'clock, at the Forest Hills Hotel, awards will be made to members who have won the highest number of points in the monthly color slide and print shows throughout the year.

Members are welcome to bring guests. Reservations should be made with Miss Doris Schmiedell, banquet chairman, Carmel 1761-W.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Gargiulo Jr. (the former Roberta Merrill of Salinas), whose wedding took place at Carmel Mission September 24.

Stamp Club Plans

On Monday evening members of the Monterey Peninsula Stamp Club met at Sunset School for a business meeting and heard the report of the committee for the annual meeting. This will be a luncheon meeting at Hotel La Ribera on November 6, and election of officers will be held at that time.

All those interested in philately are cordially invited to join the Stamp Club, whose next meeting will be held on Monday evening, October 17, at Sunset School.

Attends Realtors' Convention

Mrs. Gladys Johnston was in Long Beach this week to attend the 45th annual convention of the California Real Estate Association. The agenda of the convention included discussions of technical real estate subjects, methods of business administration and advertising problems, as well as entertainment for the visiting members.

Crocker Guests

Guests at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Crocker of Pebble Beach last weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand R. Stent of Burlingame. Both the Crockers and the Stents were among the ardent gallery participants of the golf tournament.

Mission Altar Society

The Carmel Mission Altar Society will meet on Thursday, October 13, at 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Charles Allaire, First and Pescadero in Carmel Woods. Following this first business meeting of the season, members will hear a talk on Our Lady of the Rosary.

Post for Mrs. Cochrane

Mrs. Edward W. Cochrane was appointed State USO chairman for AWVS at a state board meeting of the American Women's Voluntary Services held last week in San Francisco.

Her appointment, and the appointment of Mrs. C. R. St. Aubyn of San Francisco as western area USO chairman, are part of the nationwide program, advocated by President Truman, for service clubs to take an active part in the USO program.

Mrs. Louis Lengfeld, state president of AWVS, presided over the meeting, during which it was decided to make the state office in San Francisco also the Western States Area Office.

The local AWVS unit will meet today at 1:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Lengfeld in Pebble Beach.

Mrs. McComas Away

Mrs. Francis McComas, who left her home here this week for a trip to the east coast, will divide her time between New York and Vermont, where she will be the houseguest of Mrs. Benjamin Rogers. Mrs. Rogers, also a well known artist, recently spent several months at Pebble Beach.

Collins in Virginia

Mrs. Alfred Balsam has received word from her sister and brother-in-law, Brigadier General and Mrs. Leroy P. Collins, that they are getting settled in their new home at Fine Creek Mills, Virginia, which is situated on the James River near Richmond. The Collins, who spent several years here, left Carmel about a year ago to make their home in Virginia.

Mrs. Vye to France

Mrs. George Vye, who says only a trip to France could pull her away from her pleasant association with the Lanz Shop, is leaving soon for New York, where she will board the Italian liner Atlantic on October 17. She will go directly to her former home in Cannes to take care of family business and to visit with relatives. Mrs. Vye expects to return in the spring and will possibly spend some time in Paris before making the journey home.

Mighty Hunters Off

If you really have the hunting fever, you'll even go to neighboring states to get your buck, as is proven by the disappearance of several hunters in our locality.

Last Friday night Gene Ricketts, John Hudelson and "Gabe" Gable took off for a ten day trip into Nevada, heading for Ely and the open season.

On Thursday, the Waldo Hicks sneaked out of town with his gunning equipment, and on Saturday the Bert Taylors will meet them near Ely, Nevada, all presumably shaking with buck-fever.

It is suspected that there are some more persevering nimrods over there in the sagebrush; it is known that there will be some wrathful wives unless they produce the fillings for a deep-freezer or two.

Holy Name Society

At a meeting of the Holy Name Society at Carmel Mission rectory on Monday, the following officers were elected for the coming year: Joseph Richert, president; J. R. Belvail, vice president; Louis Alaire, secretary-treasurer; W. P. Woolsey, marshal.

The Reverend Father O'Connell presented a program of activities to be carried out during the year, stressing the fact that all men of the Society should take part in Nocturnal Adoration on the first Friday of every month.

There will be Mass and Communion on Sunday, October 9, at 8 a. m.

The next meeting of the Society will be held at Crespi Hall on Monday, October 31, at 8 p. m., and all members and friends are invited to attend.

Bradley Ouellet Leaves

Bradley Nells Ouellet, son of Commander and Mrs. Joseph Ouellet, left last week for McConnell Air Base to become a cadet in the U. S. Air Force for training as a pilot. Bradley, a recent graduate of the University of Southern California, has been in Carmel with his parents for the past six months.

George Fortier Back

Beautiful weather accompanied George Fortier on his trip to New York, where he attended the druggists' convention and took in all the entertainment provided for the attending members. The special train took the western contingent by the northern route and returned them by way of Washington, D. C., and New Orleans, which they left just a day ahead of the hurricane.

New Arrivals

Mr. and Mrs. John Paddock are the parents of their first son, Meredith Randall, who was born at the Peninsula Community Hospital on September 25. Mrs. Doris Paddock of San Francisco is his grandmother, and grandparents Mr. and Mrs. John H. Binns live in Tacoma. Mrs. Binns was here to welcome the new baby home.

On September 26, Mr. and Mrs. Pearson T. Menoher welcomed their second daughter, Marcia Susan, who arrived at the Community Hospital. She has one sister, Lynn, who is almost two years old. Her maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. James M. R. Glaser of Pebble Beach, and her paternal grandparents Mrs. Tuthill Menoher of Carmel and Major General Pearson Menoher, currently stationed in Japan.

Geology Talk

All men and women interested in rocks and minerals are invited to be on hand at the Salinas YMCA next Monday evening at 7:30 p. m. to hear Prof. V. L. Vanderhoof of Stanford University give an illustrated talk on "Egypt from a Geologist's Point of View." This feature will be a part of the program of the Monterey Bay Mineral Society, which has included in its large membership men and women and older youth from the entire Monterey Bay area, including Monterey, Pacific Grove, Carmel, Watsonville, Santa Cruz, and as far south as Hollister and San Ardo. The club in addition to its monthly meeting has been very active in field trips and is a member of the California State Federation of Rock and Mineral Clubs.

Nicol Smith Speaker

A capacity audience filled the Carmel Woman's Club on Monday afternoon, when Nicol Smith, author and world traveler, lectured on his experiences in foreign countries. His pictorial record of the hidden valley of the Himalayas was enjoyed immensely, as were his lively and interesting comments upon his subject. Mr. Smith later autographed copies of his latest book, Golden Doorway to Tibet.

Preceding the lecture, the new board of directors was introduced by Mrs. F. E. Vaughan, president.

Pouring at the tea table were Mrs. Benjamin Johnson and Mrs. Verne Skillman, who were assisted by other members of the club. Unusual floral decorations for the occasion were provided by Mrs. Pierce Parsons.

Mrs. Reginald Foster is chairman for the card party, with both canasta and bridge, to be held on Monday, October 10, at 1 p. m.

Margaret Lea Engaged

The engagement of Miss Margaret Sherman Lea to James F. Fisher, Jr., was revealed last Sunday afternoon at a beautifully appointed tea in the Carmel Woods home of Mrs. Grace C. Howden.

Mrs. Howden's home was adorned with bouquets of bronze chrysanthemums, and bronze pompoms and candles were on the tea table. Heart-shaped petits fours had the initials M and J inscribed on them in frosting.

The bride-elect's sister, Mrs. D. L. Dublin of Berkeley, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. R. Sherman Lea of Lafayette, assisted in receiving guests. Mrs. Clyde Rose of San Francisco and Miss Margaret Nielsey of Salinas and Los Angeles, poured tea.

Miss Lea, daughter of Professor E. J. Lea and the late Mrs. Lea, is a graduate of the University of California. A counsellor at Salinas Union High School, Miss Lea is best known to most Peninsula residents as organist at the Church of the Wayfarer.

Her fiancé, son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Fisher of Pennsylvania, is a graduate engineer of Pennsylvania State.

Guests included Mrs. Gordon Perske of San Jose and her mother, Mrs. Douglass Ferry, Miss Ruth Dyer of Berkeley, Mrs. K. Fillmore Gray, Mrs. Charles Burrill, Miss Olga Taylor, Mrs. Harry N. Taylor; Mesdames Carl Albertus, Paul Riebe, Ray DeYoe, Perry Newberry, Evert Lindquist, Byron Blout, Nelson Sewell, Clarence Postelwaite, Morley Horder, Donald Haines, F. E. Vaughan, Harlan Reyburn, George Cain, Victor McCrae, Haskal Stewart; and the Misses Francesca Galindeaux, Alice Seckles, LaVerta Zarnowski, Ann Hodgkins, Evelyn Sharp and Gertrude Waterman.

Home From Cal

Home for a surprise visit this past weekend came Kathie von Meier, daughter of Mrs. Julian von Meier. Kathie is registered as a freshman at U. C. and is finding her studies and life at the University very interesting, especially since she has been chosen as a member of the women's staff of the Pelican, the U. C. humor magazine.

Mrs. Canoles Back

John Canoles drove to Los Angeles last weekend to meet Mrs. Canoles when she returned from her trip east, and to bring her back to Carmel.

Mrs. Canoles, who was gone almost a month, first escorted daughter Patsy to Northfield, Mass., where she entered school. After that she visited in Portland, Maine, Rochester, N. Y., Atlanta, Ga., and Los Angeles. She reports having seen former Carmelites Mrs. Harriet Clark and Miss Betty Cole when she passed through Boston. The holiday over, Mrs. Canoles, known professionally as June Delight, is now reopening her dance studio on Mission street.

Roberts in Big Sur

Mr. and Mrs. R. Ellis Roberts are spending two weeks at Big Sur, where they will be the guests of Mrs. Valentine Mott Porter.

AAUW Book Section

The book section of the American Association of University Women will meet at the home of Dr. Margaret Swigart, 187 Ocean View avenue, Pacific Grove, on Tuesday, October 11, at 8 p. m.

Mrs. G. W. (Kippy) Stuart will give a review of the recent psychology book, The Mature Mind, by Dr. Harry Overstreet. Other books on psychology will also be discussed.

The meeting will be an important one, since in addition to the program, plans will be formulated for the Christmas party.

Goodwin-Thorne Wedding

With Father McDonald, Chaplain of the Navy General Line School, officiating, Sylvia Thorne and Lieutenant Truman Goodwin, USN, were married on Saturday afternoon before the altar of Carmel Mission. The bride was given in marriage by her father, Arthur E. Thorne.

Sylvia wore a gown of off-white satin, its net yoke embroidered in seed pearls. The full skirt, with modified panniers at the side, ended in a long train, and she wore her mother's full veil which had come from Belgium 23 years before. Her spray bouquet was of white orchids and lily of the valley.

Preceding her down the aisle were Miss Alicia Orcutt, maid of honor, and two bridesmaids, Mrs. DeWitt Appleton, Jr., and Miss Constance McDonough. Her sister, Miss Diane Thorne, served as junior bridesmaid. Rose satin was chosen for Sylvia's attendants, who wore headresses of pink bouvardia and blue carnations and carried old fashioned bouquets of pink bouvardia, pink carnations and blue delphinium. Miss Orcutt carried talisman roses.

Standing with the bridegroom was Lieutenant Joseph Cady, USN, and the ushers were Lieutenants (jg) Lionel Goulet, Charles Hamilton and George Abbott.

The couple left the church under the crossed sabers of Lieutenant Goodwin's fellow officers. A reception followed in the Thorne home, where guests were received in a beautiful garden in full bloom. The traditional wedding cake was centered upon the bride's table in the living room, which was massed with flowers for the occasion.

The newlyweds left for a honeymoon at the Ojai Inn. The new Mrs. Goodwin wore for her going-away outfit a gray suit with black accessories, a corsage of white orchids pinned to her lapel.

The couple will make their home in Carmel until this winter, when Lieutenant Goodwin expects to be transferred elsewhere.

Sylvia is a graduate of Carmel schools, and her husband is a graduate of Marquette University. He is the son of Frank Goodwin of Marblehead, Mass.

AAUW Recent Graduates

The Recent Graduates group of the American Association of University Women will hold its next meeting on Monday, October 10, at 7:45 p. m., at the home of Mrs. Les Jacobsen, 1109 Pico Avenue, Pacific Grove.

Speaker for the occasion will be Ruth Frary, M. D., who is president of the Northern California Mental Health Society and a member of the AAUW State Board. Her topic will be A Modern Concept of the Status of Women in America.

Eade Jordans Here

Eade Jordan and his wife, Betty, were here to spend Eade's birthday with his mother, Mrs. Sylvia Meter Jordan, last week. Eade has entered Stanford to work for his M. A., majoring in Hispanic languages, and Betty is back at San Jose State to complete her senior year there.

Mrs. Luna Heads East

Mrs. W. S. Luna left Wednesday morning for a trip which will take the better part of a month. Her first destination is St. Louis, where she plans to visit her daughter, Mrs. Margie Lee Moorehead. Next Mrs. Luna will travel to Kalamazoo, Michigan, and on to Grand Rapids to visit her sister, and from there to the Lunas' former home in Alean, where she will visit her father.

Morehouse Visitors

Visitors at the Ernest Morehouse home last weekend were their nephew, Gordon Lipp, and his fiancée, Miss Pauline Cummins, who came down from Marin to watch Marin whip Monterey College. Gordon, who has many friends here, is a graduate of Marin College and an old football player himself. After watching the finals in the golf matches on Sunday, the two young people flew back to the Bay Area.

BPWC Dinner

In conjunction with National Business Women's Week, October 9 to 15, the Monterey Peninsula Business and Professional Women's Club will hold a dinner at the Bamboo Gardens on October 13, at 7:00 p. m. Reservations must be made by October 8 with Eva Vernon, phone Monterey 4656 from 9 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. daily, or in the evenings at Monterey 3094.

Mrs. Mary Greene is chairman for the event, and assisting her are Thelma Stohr, club president, Edith Carter, Eleanor Kidwell, Nicki Groth, Wilma Voss, Eva Vernon, Helyn Alexander and Belle Work.

Holden-Ropp Wedding

Harvey Kennard Holden and Erma Lucille Ropp exchanged wedding vows at the Church of the Wayfarer last Saturday afternoon, with Dr. K. Fillmore Gray officiating.

The pretty bride wore a soft beige suit, complemented by cocoa brown accessories, and a corsage of brown orchids. Her attendant, Miss Alice Bebbler, chose a suit of forest green with black accessories and wore yellow carnations.

Jack Keyes stood with the groom as best man, and the ushers were Robert Tolstad and James Cooper.

A reception at the home of the groom's mother, Mrs. Joseph L. Wells, followed the ceremony. The theme of fall flowers, used in the church, was repeated in the decorations at the Wells' residence, the exception being the bride's table, which was done in white in the traditional manner.

Among the numerous guests who witnessed the wedding and attended the reception were nine young air hostesses, who had come from such far away places as Lisbon and Peru, and several pilots, all co-workers of the bride and friends of the groom.

The new Mrs. Holden is the daughter of Mrs. David Ropp of Alma, Michigan. She is a graduate of the University of Michigan and of Central State, and has been employed as an air hostess by Transcontinental Western Airlines, flying out of Los Angeles.

Harvey is a graduate of the University of California and is now engaged in business in Beverly Hills, where the newlyweds will make their home when they return from a honeymoon at Ensenada.

Marj Glennon at Mills

Marjorie Jane Glennon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl G. Glennon, has enrolled for her first year at Mills College and is busy taking part in the opening week activities on the campus. Marjorie graduated from Carmel High this year.

Audubon Trip to Big Sur

Next Sunday, October 9, members of the local Audubon Society and friends are going down to Pfeiffer State Park in the Big Sur country for their October field trip. Participants will meet at Carmel High School gate in time to leave at 7:30 a. m. This trip is the first of several trips planned to investigate and explore the bird life possibilities in regions of the Monterey Peninsula that has not been covered in recent years.

If transportation is needed, an effort will be made to provide it. Please call Mrs. Terhune, 1308 J, as soon as possible. There will be a picnic lunch at the Park, each one to bring his own basket.

Donn Hare Three

Donn Hare, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hare, recently celebrated his third birthday with a beach outing until the fog forced a retreat to the Hare home, where festivities, including ice cream and cake, continued. Assuring the success of the celebration were Donn's guests, Marcia and Greg Todd, Mardi Lloyd, Sally Leonard, Honey Williams and brother Lee Hare.

The senior Hares did a little celebrating themselves last weekend, taking in the Stanford-Michigan game in Palo Alto. They got there in time to see Dick Gargiulo make a swell run in his first game with the Stanford Freshmen.

Smallwood-Wells Wedding

In an informal noon ceremony at the Church of the Wayfarer last Saturday, Mrs. Elizabeth Timberlake Smallwood became the bride of Major Weldon B. Wells. The bride's brother-in-law, Colonel Norman J. McMahon, gave her in marriage, and the service was read by Dr. K. Fillmore Gray.

The new Mrs. Wells, who formerly lived in Winston-Salem, North Carolina, has made her home for the past several years with her sister and brother-in-law, Colonel and Mrs. McMahon.

Mrs. Alice J. Vestel of Watsonville was the bride's only attendant, and Lieutenant Colonel Ernest D. Merrill of Fort Ord served as best man.

Following the ceremony, luncheon was served at the McMahon home, after which the couple left on a wedding trip to the northern part of the state. Upon their return, they will live in Monterey.

Major Wells, son of Mrs. Olive Wells of Comanche, Texas, has been stationed at Fort Ord since March, 1948, as assistant adjutant general.

Spend Honeymoon Here

Here for their honeymoon are Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Cox, whose wedding took place last Saturday evening at the Pebble Beach home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Ray Robinson. Chaplain Henry E. Austin of the Monterey Naval School read the service before a small group of intimate friends and family members.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Emison of Beacon Bay, Newport Beach, is a graduate of Stanford University, where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma. During the war she served as a Lieutenant in the Waves.

Mrs. Harold Cox of Corona del Mar and the late Mr. Cox are the parents of the groom. A Stanford graduate, he served as a Commander in the Navy during the war.

Miss Elizabeth Emison was her sister's only attendant, and Gene Cox of Pasadena was best man for his brother.

The couple plan to make their home in Newport Beach.

Gargiulo-Merrill Wedding

An ice blue satin gown in the traditional style was worn by Roberta Ann Merrill when she became the bride of Edward S. Gargiulo, Jr., on the afternoon of September 24 in a ceremony performed at Carmel Mission by the Reverend Father Michael O'Connell. Roberta was given in marriage by her father, Robert A. Merrill of Salinas.

Her French illusion veil was held in place by a crown of seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of stephanotis surrounding a large, purple-throated orchid.

Preceding her down the aisle were Mrs. Richard Lee of San Mateo, her cousin and matron of honor, and two bridesmaids, Mary Bell and Beverly Martin. Her young sister, Connie, served as junior bridesmaid. Mrs. Lee's gown was of pale rose satin with matching hat and gauntlets, and the bridesmaids were attired in similar fashion. They carried cactus chrysanthemums in orchid shades. Little Connie Merrill's gown was styled in aqua blue taffeta to match the other attendants' dresses.

Robert Gargiulo stood with his brother as best man, and the ushers were Myron Oliver, Jr., Max Hagemeyer and Kenneth White.

Mrs. Merrill chose a dress of silver gray satin for her daughter's wedding. With it she wore a pink hat and pink gloves, and her corsage of orchids.

Mrs. Henry Davis of Los Angeles, mother of the groom, wore a wine crepe frock with black accessories and a corsage of vanda orchids.

A reception followed at Hotel La Ribera, where the newlyweds cut a three-tier wedding cake centered upon the buffet table, which was decorated with daisies, white chrysanthemums and dahlias.

After a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe and northern California, the couple will make their home in Salinas, where the groom is in business.

The bride attended Salinas Union High School and Hartnell College, and is a graduate of Armstrong Business College in Berkeley. Her husband, son of Edward S. Gargiulo, Sr., of Carmel, is a graduate of Carmel High School and attended Hartnell College.

Carwyle Callers

Miss Eloise Carwyle has been enjoying a visit from old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. English of Los Angeles, who have been staying at Highlands Inn.

Mr. English, an oil geologist, is technical adviser to the Navy Department in Washington, D. C., for all oil projects in the Arctic region and has recently returned from three months in the far north.

P-TA FOOD SALE

Fashion Show

Seven pretty models for the Gail Coupe Shop were introduced at a fashion show Wednesday by Rod Coupe, commentator. They were Nadine Vallas, Yvonne Gardner, Joanne Nix, Lee Miles, Margaret Parkhurst, Madeline Reed and Mary Rodin.

Featured in the showing was wool jersey, always a favorite and newly important this fall. Dresses of a deceptively simple cut, some with matching boleros and some combining stripes with plain color, appeared in a range of warm colors. One combining light and dark gray, with red leather trim, was worn by Joanne Nix and shown with a gray shag shorty.

Of the suits, one of the most handsome was a gray menswear worsted shown by Yvonne Gardner. The slim skirt was topped by a jacket with unusual interest in the treatment of buttons and pockets.

Progressing to dressier costumes, Nadine Vallas appeared in a two piece black metallic cocktail suit, fashioned with a straight skirt and short, fitted jacket with a flattering high collar and plunging neckline. A Suzanne original in silk, white and red printed on a mustard ground, had a decollete bodice, an effect of back fullness in the skirt being achieved with a tubular gathered panel. This was worn by Mary Rodin and had a matching, open crown hat of petals.

In coats the casual was represented by a shag wrap-around in a rust tone, which was worn by Lee Miles. A luxurious coachman's coat in black broadcloth featured huge lapels, collars and cuffs; this was shown by Madeline Reed. Margaret Parkhurst modeled a beautifully fitted coat of royal purple sheen gabardine with soft fullness in the skirt.

Attend R. C. Conference

Five representatives of the Carmel Red Cross will motor to San Francisco Saturday to attend the conference regarding extending and strengthening Red Cross services to the Armed Forces and veterans. Mrs. Dean Witter will preside over the conference, to which 58 chapters have been invited.

Carmel representatives are Mrs. Francis Foraker, Mrs. Isabel Terhune, Miss Hazel McLellan, Miss Margaret Parkhurst, and Miss Elizabeth Fogel.

Cochrane House Guest

Mrs. Robert J. Martin of Kansas City, Missouri, who is the mother of Mrs. Edward W. Cochrane, arrives tomorrow to spend two months in Carmel with the Cochranes.

Sport Notes

Daniels kept the Tech offense pretty well in check for most of the contest. These three boys were the best tacklers on the field and took a lot of starch out of the San Jose running game. Every player on the Padre varsity saw lots of action in the game and gained valuable experience for the league games which start on October 22.

MARIN JUNIOR COLLEGE
WHIPS LOBOS, 27-14

Finding the rough and tough Marin forward wall too big to move, the Monterey Peninsula College suffered their initial defeat of the 1949 season last Friday night. Although the Monterey boys made a gallant comeback in the second half, their efforts couldn't carry them over the classy Marin aggregation. If there is a better line in the Junior College Conference than that sported by the Mariners the owner is in a smug position for the current season. Time after time, the big Marin forwards opened street-wide holes in the Lobos defense. The adept Marin backs knew what to do with the porkhike when they moved into the secondary, gaining plenty of extra yardage by nifty open-field running.

Down 27-0 in the third period, the willing Lobos put together two touchdown drives in the final period to show that they are capable of holding their own with good JC opposition. The passing of Dick Narvaez and the receiving of Al Mathews and Jim Cunningham provided most of the spark for the Lobos touchdown drives.

Tonight the Lobos travel to Modesto for a league engagement with the very good Modesto JC eleven. Modesto shellacked the powerful Vallejo JC outfit last Friday night and are considered a definite threat for the league crown.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" This question is the subject for the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon on Sunday, October 9, with the Golden Text taken from Psalms: "God be merciful unto us, and bless us; and cause his face to shine upon us; that thy way may be known upon earth, thy saving health among all nations" (67: 1, 2).

The following citations are among those comprising the sermon:

Revelation: "And there came unto me one of the seven angels which had the seven vials full of the seven last plagues, and talked with me, saying, Come hither, I will shew thee the bride, the Lamb's wife. And he shewed me a pure river of water of life, clear as crystal, proceeding out of the throne of God and of the Lamb. In the midst of the street of it, and on either side of the river, was there the tree of life, which bare twelve manner of fruits, and yielded her fruit every month; and the leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations" (21:9, 22: 1, 2).

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The Bible contains the recipe for all healing. 'The leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations.' Sin and sickness are both healed by the same Principle. The tree is typical of man's divine Principle, which is equal to every emergency, offering full salvation from sin, sickness, and death" (p. 406).

Koch Exhibit Will Be Held Over 10th; Ritchell Show Next

The one-man exhibit of seascape oils by long-time Carmel artist George Koch has been held over the customary two week period because of exceptional popular demand, and will continue through October 10th, according to Mrs. Nellie Montague, Carmel Art Association Gallery curator.

The seascapes produced by Mr. Koch over a period of 34 years have caused the frequent comment that "they catch the savagery of the down-the-coast shoreline in the manner of Robinson Jeffers' poems," Mrs. Montague adds. The exhibit has been one of the most popular with the general public in this history of the Carmel Art Gallery. Though Mr. Koch is a charter member and former vice-president of the Art Association, this has been his first one-man show for the gallery, previously having exhibited principally in the East.

Following the Koch exhibit, a memorial exhibit of William Ritchell's paintings — 20 oils and 20 water colors — will be held in both galleries. Ritchell's famous marines of this coast as well as sea and landscapes and portraits from Capri, Java, Portugal and other parts of the world will be viewed. "Man and the Sea" is the theme of this exhibit which will open October 10, 11 and continue the rest of the month.

Dick Hagadorn Very Pleased With Paris

(Continued from Page One) breeze the latest communiques from various intellectual fronts or have a cheap evening of celebration. Dick thought these sessions varied from pompous to stimulating. Also, there are famous galleries and exhibits to visit like the renowned Salon d'Automne.

Bicycling and painting excursion around the countryside also fill time pleasantly. Dick took a two-wheel tour from Paris to the Spanish border, through the Loire River country, the lower Pyrenees, Toulouse, Toledo, Madrid and other points, absorbing scenery, history, and visiting famous galleries whenever he came to them.

When gloomy Paris winter weather settled in, he headed for Italy where the sun was shining on Rome, Florence, and the picturesque Italian countryside. He likes Florence best after Paris.

Before returning to the United States he added Morocco and Switzerland to his itinerary. Then having survived the rigors of continental student life, he came back home to have pneumonia.

Now fully recuperated he is back teaching art at Carmel High School where he has instructed since 1945 with the exception of his year's leave. In addition to encouraging art-conscious Carmel teen-agers, he is an enthusiastic supporter of the ski club. Did he go skiing while in Switzerland? No — a fact he may have a hard time explaining to his ski-mates.

CAL GAME MOVIES

Moving pictures of Cal football games will be shown at the library of the Carmel High School, October 24, at 7 p. m., Al Fry announced this week.

One of the Cal coaches will be there to comment on the film.

Carmel Lions Club

Lieutenant Commander Frank Avila of the Del Monte Naval School was guest speaker at the Tuesday dinner meeting of the Carmel Lions Club. Commander Avila, who was introduced by Oscar Balzer, spoke on the history of the islands in the Pacific.

Other guests present were Arthur Hull, Bert Taylor and visiting Lion Jack Eagal of Stockton.

The Lions are organizing a Hallows'en party to which each Lion is to bring his own child or invite one.

Betty Goulart Wed

A former Carmelite and graduate of Carmel High School, Elizabeth Mae Goulart, became the bride of Anthony J. Cunha at Carmel Mission on September 25. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe T. Goulart of Monterey.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cunha, Sr., of Alisal, attended schools in Gustine and Salinas.

Following a honeymoon trip into Canada, the newlyweds will make their home in Alisal, where the groom is associated with his father in the dairy business.

Mrs. Howden Returns

Mrs. Grace C. Howden is currently being welcomed back to her Carmel Woods home after a four months' absence, during which illness has confined her to hospitals in Paso Robles and Los Angeles. She is now better and very happy to be home.

Mrs. Howden's pioneer work with the Monterey County Symphony Association, as well as her activities in Carmel's Church of the Wayfarer, the Council of Church Women, and the Carmel Woman's Club, are well known on the Peninsula.

Milwaukee Visitors

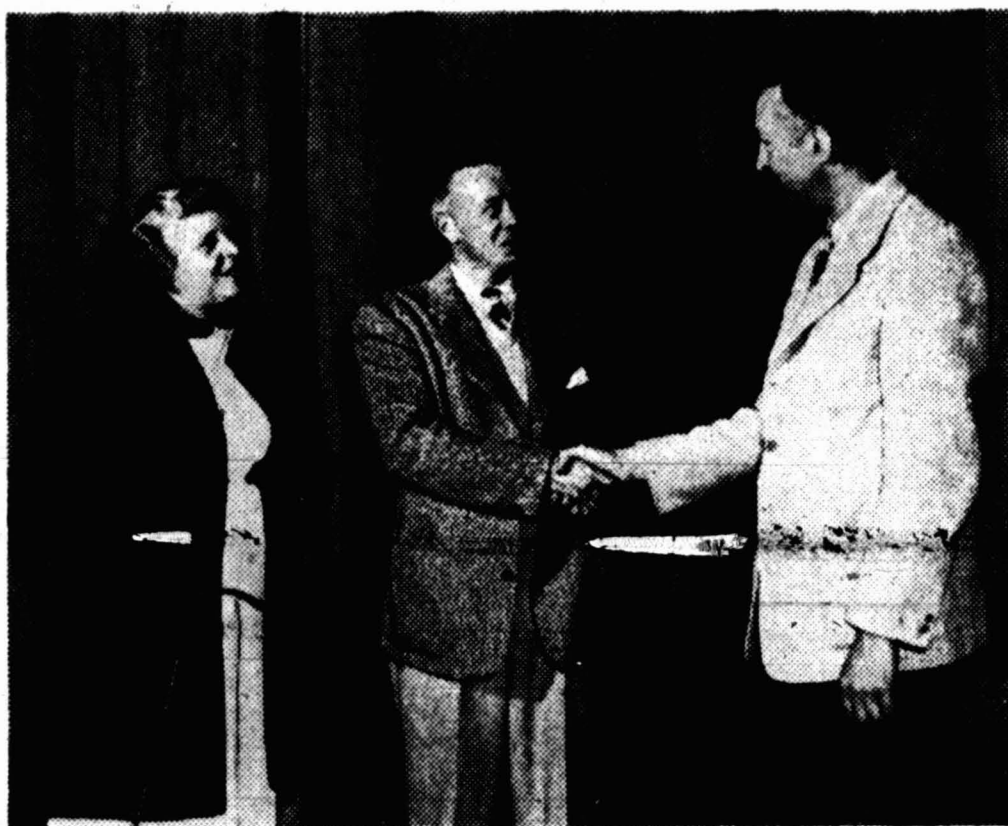

Recent guests at the home of Lieutenant Commander and Mrs. C. L. Anthony were Mrs. Anthony's grandfather, William F. Luick, and her mother, Mrs. Carl A. Foster, who were here from Milwaukee.

Last Thursday the Anthonys took their guests to San Francisco for a day before their departure for home on Saturday.

Weston Heir Arrives

A reasonable facsimile of Neil Weston was born to his wife, Kraig, on Wednesday morning, October 5, and is now squalling lustily in the nursery of the Community Hospital. Both Mark, as he has been named, and his mother are doing fine, but no visitors yet, please.

Mark's maternal grandparents are Mrs. Marie Short of Carmel and Douglas Short of Sausalito. Edward Weston is his paternal grandfather.

Marion Todd, executive secretary and Al Fry, president of the Community Chest, accept offer of the Forest Theatre Guild, through its President David Prince, of a benefit performance of the Ferber-Kaufman hit, Stage Door, October 27, 28, 29 at Sunset School Auditorium.

Denny Roper

Denney W. Roper, 79, died at his home on Scenic Drive last Wednesday morning. He would have been 80 years of age in another two weeks.

Mr. Roper had lived in Carmel 13 years since his retirement as electrical engineer with the Commonwealth-Edison Company of Chicago, where he formerly made his home.

He leaves in addition to his widow, a sister, Mrs. Jessie A. Roper of Chicago; a daughter, Helen R. Marquis of San Francisco; a son, John N. Roper of Chicago and five grandchildren, including David and Sally Marquis of San Francisco. Funeral services will be held this afternoon in the Little Chapel by the Sea, with Dr. K. Fillmore Gray officiating. Arrangements were handled by Paul Mortuary. The family asked that flowers be omitted.

Nesbitt's Operation Successful

A telegram received Thursday morning in Pacific Grove by Mrs. Elizabeth Nesbitt, Phil Nesbitt's mother, states that Phil was operated on October 3 and that the operation was highly successful. Dr. Roland Klemme, Phil's physician, sent the reassuring wire. Phil will be up and around shortly, but must remain at the hospital under observation for several months. Meanwhile, his friends on the Monterey Peninsula can enliven his stay by writing him care of Mission Baptist Hospital, 919 North Taylor street, St. Louis, Missouri.

Small and large printing orders are quickly filled at The Pine Cone Press. Phone Carmel 1.

Joseph Souza

Joseph Souza, born 68 years ago on the old Doud ranch near Big Sur, died last Friday night in a Peninsula hospital following a lingering illness.

He lived in Big Sur 26 years before moving to San Francisco where he was employed by the United Railroads. He is survived by a sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Patterson of Carmel, and another sister, Mrs. Sarah R. Cummings of Big Sur. Funeral services were held Tuesday at the T. A. Dorney Chapel and burial took place in the Monterey Catholic Cemetery.

ENGLISH EXAM FOR ADULTS

The Monterey Peninsula Evening College offers adults an opportunity to take the Subject "A" examination to qualify to enter the regular freshman English for college credit. The Subject "A" examination is prepared and distributed by the University of California and is given to high school seniors who wish to qualify for admission to the University.

This examination will be given Friday evening, October 7, in room 9 of the Business Education building from 7 to 10 p. m.

WE DON'T WANT TO DEPRESS YOU, BUT FEEL THAT WE MUST remind you that there are only 65 more shopping days before Christmas! Chilling thought, isn't it? Seriously, though, if you send Christmas cards in any number from one to a thousand, now is the time to select them at the little blue house on Lincoln Street. The later in the season it gets, the more danger there is of not having a full choice, due to the difficulty of restocking imported items.

New this week in the card room at The Bookmen is a delightful line of cards done by a New York artist. Humorous and light in touch without being over-sophisticated, they give a feeling of being hand-made. You can find one suited to each of your friends, and—most important — they're inexpensive.
